

SUNDAY, APRIL 27, 1913.

Rogation Sunday.

LESSONS.

Mattins—Deuteronomy vi; St. Luke xix v. 28.
Evensong—Deuteronomy ix, or x; Philipians iv.

A dull wet day, spent mostly in bed. Went for a walk with Lawrence after tea. Wrote letters.

MONDAY, APRIL 28, 1913.

c 6.9 a.m.

A very strong wind blowing off the sea, but absolutely steady. Had one trip with Becks on a Maurice, but after standing still for five minutes over a railway line, we came back & did a short spiral from 5300'. Afterwards went out on 218 by myself.

It came on to rain after lunch, & spoiled the golf.

Harrison was killed this morning at Farnborough on the Trials Cody. The machine broke up in the air.

Our dance put off in consequence. This is the fourth Trials machine that has killed a man, not counting Fenwick on the Mercury.

TUESDAY, APRIL 29, 1913.

Wind not quite as strong as yesterday, but of the same character. Same programme: trip with Becker to find a place, could not get there, came back, short stint on 218 & then home.

Arthur, Daves (new), Tucker & Mac Donald turned up today, Read comes tomorrow.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 30, 1913.

Short fly on 218. Wind light & steady. Played four rounds on the small links, one with Laurence, one with Longcroft & two alone.

THURSDAY, MAY 1, 1913.

Ascension Day. St. Philip and St. James, Apostles and Martyrs.

LESSONS—Mattins—Daniel vii v. 9 to v. 15; St. Luke xxiv v. 44.

Evensong—2 Kings ii to v. 16; Hebrews iv.

With Lawrence first & then took him for a short fly. Weather fine & sunny.

Played a three some on the big links with Arthur & Lawrence.

FRIDAY, MAY 2, 1913.

Had a very good fly with Dawes, to Careston & back, finishing with a spiral from 3000'. In the afternoon went with Lawrence in a hired Ford to see the Cleghons at Alyth. A lovely place, & had a very good time.
